- A sentence is a group of words that expresses a complete thought. It begins with a capital letter and ends with a punctuation mark.
- A sentence fragment is a group of words that does not express a complete thought: Went to the store.
- A statement is a sentence that tells something. It ends with a period.

  The playground is under construction.
- A question is a sentence that asks something. It ends with a question mark: Have you visited the new zoo?
- You can use interrogatives such as how, what, when, where, why, and who to ask questions.

Read each group of words. If it is a sentence, add the proper punctuation mark. If it is not a complete sentence, write fragment.

1. My mother walked into the kitchen .
2. Looked out the window fragment
3. One of my sisters fragment
4. What were they looking at ?
5. A deer stood in the yard .
6. Underneath the apple tree fragment
7. We watched quietly .
8. The deer looked up .
9. Did it see us ?

ELL Have students use sentence frames to complete the writing activity. One day I visited the zoo. I saw a parrot. Why does this animal have so many colors?

In your writer's notebook, write about a time you saw an unusual animal. Check your work to make sure each sentence expresses a complete thought and ends with a period or question mark.

- A command is a sentence that tells or asks someone to do something. It ends with a period or an exclamation point: Be careful.
- An exclamation expresses strong feeling. It ends with an exclamation point: Carrots are my favorite vegetable, too!

Add the proper punctuation mark to the end of each sentence. Then write whether the sentence is a statement, question, command, or exclamation.

1. Where are the maps ? question
2. I had them in my backpack . statement
3. Help me look for them . (or !) command
4. I'm so angry about losing them ! exclamation

Reading/Writing Connection

Read this paragraph from "A Life in the Woods." Underline the exclamation. Then explain why you think the author used an exclamation in the paragraph.

Thoreau's move to the woods indicated that he liked to be alone. But Thoreau did not feel that way. "I have a great deal of company in my house," he wrote. Red squirrels awoke him by running up and down the sheer sides of his cabin. A snowshoe hare lived in the debris under his cabin, thumping against the floorboards. A sparrow once perched on his shoulder. Thoreau recorded these experiences in his journal. How easily writing came to him with the beauty of nature!

Possible response: The exclamation helps show Thoreau's excitement about living in nature with animals.

High-frequency words are the most common words in the English language. You read them every day. Many do not follow regular sound or spelling patterns. Most cannot be illustrated. The more you read and write them, the easier they are to remember. Read these high-frequency words out loud, quickly but accurately.

page	outside	work	write	nature
listened	noise	take	raised	could
white	leaves	live	would	filled
next	room	place	thought	walked

Read this excerpt from "A Life in the Woods." Underline the high-frequency words listed in the box. Underline each word only once.

Henry David Thoreau raised his pen to write, but the chatter of guests in the next room filled his ears. He stared at the page. "Concord, 1841" was all that he had written. How would he write a book with such noise in his family's house? Thoreau headed outside, shutting the door with emphasis. He would have to find a place of his own.

Thoreau walked out of town. Tall white pines soon replaced the painted houses. He listened to the rustling of the leaves. What if I could stay here, he thought. He could live off the land, close to nature, and begin his book. It would take work, but he could do it.

Reading/Writing Connection

Think of a time you were distracted. Write about this experience. Use and underline at least five high-frequency words from the box. Then correct any misspelled words.
